

CEDC

The Team Members

Anne Delaney, B.Sc (Architectural Studies), B.Arch., MCIH, has over twenty years relevant experience in housing and has been an independent consultant for four years. She was previously with the Audit Commission as Lead Housing Inspector responsible for managing inspection of housing services (including equalities) in Welsh local authorities, and for corporate governance assessments of a range of English local authorities. She was previously Assistant Director Housing Service Audit at Tai Cymru/Housing for Wales, where she developed and managed performance standards, regulation, inspection, policy, good practice advice and performance indicators for housing associations, covering all aspects of housing. Anne is a Board Member of the CIH Cymru National Business Unit.

Simon Inkson, BA (Hons), Postgraduate Diploma in Housing Administration, MCIH, has 20 years experience in the housing and support fields and has been an independent consultant for five years. Prior to this he held a number of posts in local government, developing an expertise in strategy development and research. Simon started his career working in supported housing projects for single homeless and young single homeless people. He has extensive experience of research, policy and strategy development and has carried out a number of pieces of work relevant to ensuring effective housing services for disadvantaged groups. Simon along with Clifton was a founding member of CEDC. Simon is a voluntary Board Member of Care & Repair Cymru and a Board Member of the CIH Cymru National Business Unit.

Clifton Robinson, LLB (Hons), DMS, CIH (Affiliated Member) has experience of policy development, management and training in the social housing, equality/diversity and criminal justice sectors. His experience has been gained in working for three housing associations over a period of 20 years, as a consultant working with six Welsh local authorities to deliver their BME Housing Strategies, as an equalities trainer and as the Chair of the North Wales Area Probation Board from April 2004. He has been working as a housing and management consultant and trainer since forming Cymru Equality and Diversity Consortium (CEDC) with Simon Inkson in July 2003. Clifton was re-appointed as Chair of North Wales Probation (April 2007), was appointed Wales representative on the Probation Boards Association for England and Wales (April 2007) and was also appointed to the Statutory Wales Committee of the new Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) (October 2007). This last position gives him an excellent overview of policy developments across the various equality strands. Clifton has also been an active board member of Mind Cymru and North Wales Race Equality Network for several years.